

GIANG DAO

INOSO LLC, Texas, USA
Center for Innovative Materials and Architectures,
Vietnam National University, Ho Chi Minh City
Phone: (+01)408-768-2494, Email: gtdao47@gmail.com

Feb. 2011 – Present

- INOSO LLC, Texas, USA, VP of Strategy
- INOMAR Center, Vietnam National Univ., HCM City: Co-Founder/Advisor

Feb. 1986 - Feb. 2011: Intel Corporation, Santa Clara, CA

- March 2010 - Current: Sr. Advisor to the President of Vietnam National University Ho Chi Minh City
- July 2007 - December 2009:
 - ✓ Intel assignee and VP of the California NanoSystems Institute (CNSI), University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA)
 - ✓ Member of the SEMATECH's Board of Directors.
- April 2001 – June 2007: Intel assignee, SEMATECH, Austin TX
 - ✓ VP & COO, Advanced Technology
 - ✓ Director, Lithography Division

At SEMATECH, Giang managed group of ~100 scientists and researchers with ~$100M annual budget working with global consortia, universities, semiconductor producers and suppliers to develop leading edge technologies for future use in manufacturing of semiconductor devices.

Giang joined Intel in 1986 as a researcher. He has published a number of technical papers and received 36 US and international patents. Prior to joining Intel, Giang worked for National Semiconductor and several start-up's including one in Vancouver, Canada, where he was a founding member. Giang served as organizer and chair, keynote, guest and invited speaker at numerous international conferences and workshops.

Giang graduated from the Tokyo Institute of Technology, Tokyo, Japan, with a MS in physical materials